

ICOLD 2026 94TH ANNUAL MEETING

GUADALAJARA - MEXICO
21-28 may 2026

INITIAL BULLETIN

ICOLD 2026
94TH ANNUAL MEETING
GUADALAJARA - MEXICO

INVITATION

Distinguished ICOLD members, colleagues, and friends from the world of hydraulic engineering:

With great pride and excitement, I extend my most sincere invitation to ICOLD Mexico 2026, an event that promises to mark a before and after in the history of our organization. As President of ICOLD Mexico, it is an honor for me to host this extraordinary meeting, which will not only bring together the brightest minds in dam and water resources engineering, but will also be an opportunity to discover the greatness and wealth of a country that lives in constant synergy with water: Mexico.

Our country, with its unparalleled cultural diversity, breathtaking landscapes and legacy of innovation in hydraulic engineering, is ready to welcome you with open arms. Mexico has been able to transform its challenges into opportunities, and throughout our history we have demonstrated our capacity for resilience and evolution, in which water has always been and continues to be a symbol of life and prosperity.

ICOLD Mexico 2026 will be much more than a technical event; it will be a celebration of ideas that transform, projects that build sustainable futures and partnerships that are born to last. Here, under the Mexican sun, we will discuss global water challenges, share innovative solutions and celebrate our passion for creating a more resilient and connected world.

In addition to the technical richness, I invite you to immerse yourself in the vibrant culture of our country, to tour our colonial cities, to marvel at our archaeological sites and to let yourself be carried away by the warmth of our people. Every corner of Mexico tells a story, and I am sure that this will be an experience that will remain engraved in your memory.

With the conviction that together we will continue to build bridges of knowledge, I look forward to seeing you at Mexico 2026, an event that will be as unforgettable as it is transformative. It is time to share, learn and strengthen our global community around water, and what better place to do so than in the land where water flows like the very soul of our nation.

With gratitude and enthusiasm,

Dr. Humberto Marengo Mogollón
President, ICOLD Mexico

GUADALAJARA

Guadalajara is a city of folklore, colors and contrasts where the modern mingles with history, culture and colonial architecture, a place whose mariachis, tequila and traditional hospitality are its best emblems.

The harmonious blend of urban development, architecture, and a deep legacy of traditions make Guadalajara that tell the story of the metropolis. Its diverse historical sites, some of them declared World Heritage by UNESCO, are a great attraction.

Guadalajara is Mexico's 2nd largest city and the Capital of the State of Jalisco. Guadalajara is the birthplace of the most recognized Mexican symbols in the world: Mariachi, Tequila and Charrería.

Due to the strength of its economy and quality of life, this cosmopolitan city is considered the second most important in Mexico. It is distinguished by its authentic colonial architecture, where each historic building speaks through its murals to remind us the social, political and economic transformation of our country.

In Jalisco, the blue agave crops are totally protected. They are protected by the declaration of Protection of the Origin of Tequila Denomination, a law established in Mexico since 1974.

CONNECTIVITY

Inside the airport, banking services, exchange currency offices, mailing services, restaurants and stores can be found, in addition to safe ground transport, taxicabs and buses.

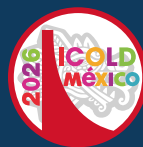

AIR CONNECTIVITY

Guadalajara's airport is the third most important destination for companies that belong to the largest airline alliances of the world. These cooperation agreements offer access to both international and regional cities; therefore, the city is linked with 80% of the global routes. Miguel Hidalgo International Airport gets an average of 400 daily flights with 22 international destinations, 29 national destinations and 1 to Latin America. It gets 19,000 passengers approximately every day and over 7.6 millions every year. Recently, it was extended in order to offer more connectivity.

TRADE EXPO

EXPOGUADALAJARA

GUADALAJARA BALLROOM

Expo Guadalajara, a convention center of international renown, with more than three decades of history, now offers nearly 120,000 square meters of space. Each year, it hosts more than 80 exhibitions, 260 social and corporate events, the most important Book Fair in Ibero-America, and 21 international congresses, drawing up to 60,000 people daily through its 29 halls, with capacity for 28,000 simultaneous Wi-Fi connections and nearly 2,000 parking spaces. In other words, it is a “hall of halls” that can accommodate absolutely everything, adapting to all needs and welcoming all kinds of audiences.

On its esplanade, Expo Guadalajara features ideal spaces for concerts, parades, and large-scale cultural events with world-class artists—often the highlight of cultural events like the International Book Fair. Of course, it also includes all the infrastructure needed for catering small events, and it offers sandwiches, coffee, and meals at the venue’s restaurant.

Moreover, it is located in Mexico’s second most important city, which offers visitors a wide range of entertainment, culture, cuisine, and nightlife—perfect for mixing business with pleasure.

Expo Guadalajara is the largest congress and convention center in Mexico and one the largest and most important in Latin America.

With 37 years of experience, it is the ideal venue to fulfill the requirements of world-class international congresses.

TECHNICAL VISIT TO LA YESCA DAM

La Yesca Dam is a dam and hydroelectric power plant located on the course of the Santiago River, between the municipalities of La Yesca, Nayarit, and Hostotipaquillo, Jalisco.

La Yesca is part of a network of hydroelectric plants that operate in a cascading system to increase water flow strength, aiming to maximize the efficiency of the turbine-powered electricity generation systems.

The massive structure includes two vertical Francis-type turbogenerators, which reach a peak generation capacity of 750 MW through two tunnels. More than ten thousand workers excavated and prepared the site, supported by a large team operating drilling equipment and tractors that moved thousands of tons of earth—especially in the areas where the concrete dam, gates, powerhouse, two generator tunnels, and the substation were built.

After exploring the majesty of the La Yesca Dam, we will head to Tequila, known for the region's iconic drink—referred to as the elixir of the Mayan gods—to enjoy the rest of the day.
